Dear Family,

I was trying to confirm the full name and spelling of the current resident of the St. Mary's /Wallis Manor in Chittene. I was also trying to learn if my ancestor George Wallis ever really lived at the Manor. He lived somewhere in Chitterne at the time he married in 1841. Sue Robinson, the historian in Chitterne whom I think all of you know, has just responded with the info in quotes about the name and where the family first lived. She said to me previously that the Wallises in Thatcham sold gravel from the property in Thatcham. That evidently is what Laurence told her. Her comments are in black. "Kay. I learned of the Thatcham Wallis's gravel dealings from Laurence when I interviewed him about local history about 4 years ago, before he became so ill.... The other thing Laurence told me that may answer one of your questions was that his earliest ancestor in Chitterne lived at Well Cottage, I think I've put that on my page on the Wallis family, if not, I certainly meant to. Well Cottage (it is on my map) is in St. Mary's parish, so explains why the early ones are buried in the St Mary graveyard. The parish boundary ran down the middle of Bidden Lane." (See below for her article on the Wallis family, which I am sure you all have read.)

"Laurence's first name is definitely William, William Laurence Buckeridge Wallis is his full title. (I'm not sure how he spells the Laurence) Janet also has another name before the Janet, it starts with C, but I don't know what it stands for. Possibly Charlotte, like her mother?"

The following is a copy of Sue's item re the Wallises. They were evidently there in the 17th century. But I question where our ancestors lived when they went to Chitterne in 1823. DO ANY OF YOU KNOW WHERE THEY LIVED WHEN THEY MOVED THERE in 1823 and until Mary Buckeridge Wallis died in 1844?? Ken recently provided me with a copy of Rupert Lionel Wallis' pedigree. Rupert states that William IV lived first in Thatcham and then in Foxcott 1808-1823 and then went to St. Mary's Chitterne. Rupert shows Mary b. 1809 and John Buckeridge Wallis b.1811 in Andover and the rest of the children born in Foxcott, as I shared with you from the Winchester records office. Our William IV died at an early age in 1825 so he did not live long in Chitterne if he just moved there in 1823. Does anyone know any family history of what William IV did other than farming? As his widow Mary Buckeridge W. had 9 children, to my count, to raise they must have lived in a large house and continued farming or something. Please tell me what you know about the family of William IV as that is the ancestor we all have in common.

The Wallis's have lived in Chitterne since the 17th century and in the Manor house of Chitterne St Mary for over 150 years.

The family tradition says that the first Wallis, a gentleman, arrived in the village around 1635 and then disappeared! Then, around 1670, a second Wallis, a wheelwright and carpenter, arrived and settled at Well Cottage in Bidden Lane. He was the ancestor of the Chitterne Wallis family.

From my own brief research I found a John Wallis, and a William Wallis both leasing land and property in Chitterne in the 1750's from Norton Powlett (Paulet), the owner. John, said to be from Amport near Andover in Hampshire in 1752 and William (origin unknown) in 1755. John had a son also called John, but William became the favoured family name given to the eldest son of each generation.

During the 19th century, two such eldest sons called William each had a wife called Mary, leading to plenty of confusion for researchers, but nowadays each eldest son is known by his second name, a definite improvement! Eldest sons of the family are also christened with a third name, Buckeridge. This is given to seal the gift of a place reserved at St John's College, Oxford (should the son be sufficiently academic), bestowed by Bishop Buckeridge of Ely, an ancestor and one of the founders of that college. Later the family became brewers and maltsters, landlords of the local public house, the King's Head, and grew their own barley. A 1910 tax made malting uneconomic and from that time the family concentrated on farming.

In 1851 William Wallis rented the Manor and 460 acres of land from Lord Long, who then owned most of Chitterne. This William, and his wife Mary (nee White), had 17 children and it was said at the time that there were enough Wallis's and Bazells (a family with 13 children from Clump Farm nearby), to make a football team. Inevitably, in an isolated village like Chitterne, the Wallis family became connected to other local farming families through marriage. The three I know of are, Eliza Wallis and John Titt (of Elm Farm - see John Wallis Titt); Emily Lavington (of Clump Farm) and George Wallis; and Louisa Compton (whose brother farmed Glebe Farm) and Mark Wallis.

At the end of the first World War Frederick Wallis took up a mortgage to buy the Manor and land from Lord Long. The mortgage was not paid off until Frederick's son Victor's time.

Today the Manor stands on high ground overlooking the old parish of Chitterne St Mary. It is a beautiful 17th century red brick house with stone-mullioned windows, stone tiled roof and a heavy, riveted oak front door. The house used to be in the plan of an H, but the right side wing was demolished in the 19th century. There is purported to be a tunnel running from the Manor's cellars to the site of another old house, now demolished, that once stood on the present day village Sportsfield.

Here is a copy of an article written by Percy Trollope Jan1979.

John Wallis Titt

Was born at Chitterne on May 14th 1841, and was the secondson of John W Titt, farmer of Chitterne, whose wife was a Miss Wallis.

On the farm at Chitterne, where John Wallis Titt remained until twenty-five years of age, was an old four armed windmill used for milling purposes. Mr Titt often spoke of being called upon to rise with the wind at any time during the night to do duty at the windmill, and there is no doubt that the experience gained with this wind engine prompted him in later years to manufacture at Woodcock Works a more modern type of 'Wind Engine' for pumping purposes.

Upon leaving Chitterne he was for some time with Messrs. Wallis and Stevens, of Basingstoke, and subsequently represented Messrs. Brown & May, of Devizes, from where he came in 1872 to Warminster and established an agricultural engineering business in Portway in 1867, manufacturing hay and straw elevators, and dealing in some of the earliest mowing and reaping machines.

In 1876 Mr Titt having bought a site in Woodcock, established the present works and in the same year secured a contract from the War Office to supply water to the mobilisation of Militia camped at Lamb Down and Yarnborough Castle, the water being forced by steam pumps from the river near Codford.

In 1884 Mr. Titt made a contract with the late Sir Edmund Fane to supply the Boyton Estate with water, and it was in connection with this work that the first set of pumps were made at Woodcock Works. At about the same time the manufacture of wind engines was commenced, a large number of which have been fixed for water supplies to towns, villages, estates, and upon many of the Railways in all parts of the Kingdom, and most foreign countries, including Siberia, Southern Italy, and in the Market Place of Khartoum.

Mr Titt retired from the business in 1903, owing to ill health. He remained an invalid, but was able to get out until October 1909. He, however, gradually weakened, and although for the last three months he had to keep to his bed, his memory was good until just before his death. He died May 5th, 1910, aged 69. Throughout his long illness he never complained, and happily seemed free from pain.

The funeral took place at St. John's Church, where the interment took place. The arrangements were carried out by the firm, under the direction of Mr William Spencer, and Mr Henry Titt (the latter having been in the firm's employ for the period of thirty years), assisted by Mr William Baverstock, Mr George Grace and Mr H Whatley.

A tribute was given by the Rev. J.W.R. Broklebank at the following Sunday evening service: "Mr Titt was pre-eminently a man of the times, gifted to devise cunning works and a gifted mechanical engineer."

A letter from Mr G W Frost, managing director of John Walls Titt & Co Ltd (1995) in response to my interest in the company.

John Wallis Titt was born in Chitterne, a small village outside of Warminster, some time in the early 1940's. His mother was one of the Chitterne Wallises' hence his middle name - and there must have been some tie up with WALLIS & STEVENS, traction engine manufacturers at Basingstoke, because he did his apprenticeship with them, and in those days that would have been quite a long way to travel!

He started his company in Warminster in 1867, originally as a part time agent for a company called BROWN & MAY of Devizes. He built a new premises at Woodcock Works in 1874. His principal enterprise was as a contractor of steam tackle and there are some interesting correspondence in the local papers of that period with regard to problems of steam tackle on bridges and opposition from horse owners, and he seemed to be in the forefront of 'new' thinking.

The company grew and had its own foundry in the 1890's and made a name for themselves in producing windmills. We have a catalogue of his windmills in the 1900's which showed that they were exported all over the world. he had either 8 or 9 children and died in 1910(?) and is buried at St John's Church, Boreham Road, Warminster.

The Company, which was very strong, went down after the 1st world war, and resurrected itself (due to better management) up to and after the second world war. When it had 30 years of uninterrupted growth. Its main line then was the manufacture of hay elevators and the sale of tractors and farm machinery to replace horse mechanisation. The original tractors and combines came across in crates from the States during the second world war and were assembled onsite.

There are still a number of Titt relations in Warminster, and the grandson of Mr John Wallis Titt died during the last 10 years - his relations still have shares in the company.

PAGE 192-95 RE J.W. TITT [In a section on Agricultural Engineers]

Machines in agriculture were first introduced in England in the 18th century.. A lease dated May 1808 on the three lives of Thomas Pepler Reeves and his sons Thomas and Horatio (aged 2) shows that he was then a blacksmith, occupying a messuage of about 1 acre, part of a tenement known as Har t's and Deanly. (A house called Daeslye stood until recently on the Westbury side of the works.)

Little is known of the business between that date and 1830. But a catalogue of 1859 claims that the firm had been celebrated for corn drills for 30 years, and as ploughmakers for 40 years. At any rate T.P. Reeves was mainly a blacksmith and his eldest son Thomas learned the same trade, and at one time settled at Westbury where he is mentioned in 1830. But by that time at least the third son, Robert (born c. 1810) was already working at Bratton. The earliest surviving ledger of Thomas Pr., R., and J., Reeves (1847) has an account with J.T. Flower's, executors, showing a total debit balance of £215 in that year. A further reference shows that this total is composed of annual sums going back to work done in 1828. (Reeves's Farm and Flower's Barn are close together near Bartton church; perhaps there was a family connexion to account for the long debt.)

The ledgers of the late forties show that the youngest son, John (born c.

1815) was then active in the business, mostly on the blacksmithing side, whilst Robert seems to have concentrated on woodworking. Their work was still principally in simple implements, both manufacture and maintenance, and general smith's work. But in 1848 they were also exhibiting implements at the Royal Agricultural Show at York, where they a silver medal, so that it is impossible to suppose that they had merely local significance.

In 1848 Thomas Pepler Reeves died, and the business was valued both then and in 1855 when his eldest son Thomas left the partnership, to which he belonged for only a short time. This valuation shows an Upper Yard, a paint shop, a saw-pit shed, and other buildings; 5 bellows, 4 sledges, and 6 anvils. Besides, there was the proper engineer's equipment, 5 vices, 4 lathes, 2 drilling machines, 'stocks dyes and taps', &c., and a steam-engine valued at £110 to drive the blower for the foundry and other machinery. The annual wages bill in 1847 was about £100, and the partner's profits £150.

In January 1850, the assets were valued at £863. Fifty years later the freehold alone was worth more than £1,800 and the capital was more than £10,000.

During the intermediate years the firm became widely known as makers of agricultural implements. Their catalogues show a widening range, many medals gained at shows and exhibitions, and testimonials from all parts of England. They also started work as agents for other firms: they sold churns for Hathaway of Chippenham (see above), and steam-engines for Brown & May of Devizes (see below). They were even the local undertakers (and continued to be so in 1952). Much detail of their later work is to be found in one of the catalogues of J.W. Titt of Warminster (see below). He had seven models of the ploughs, with very rigid specifications, a sign of large-scale manufacture. There were also land-pressers, corn-sowing machinery of all sorts, drills for... [page 194 goes on with details of R & J Reeves & Son.

John Wallis Titt is mentioned again near the end of this page

Their products included a chaff-cutter which was mentioned at Warminster Fair in 1875. Further details are given in John Wallis Titt's Catalogue of c.1890. This shows chaff-cutters of an elaborate design combining three or four operations, a patent automatic lamb creep, a cheese press, and other implements.

The last proprietor of the firm appears to have been William Carson Toone, grandson of the founder, who emigrated to Canada in c.1906. He sold the business to Gray & Turner who operated for about sixty years...

[page 195] The Warminster district was inclosed in the middle of the 19th century, and mechanization increased. Engines for steamploughs were made in Wiltshire by Brown & May of Devizes. The ploughs ran on cables moved by one or two stationary steam-engines. John Wallis Titt, who had been trained by Brown & May, was sent to Warminster as their agent in 1870. He set up his office at Portway, and for four years continued merely as their employee. However, in 1874 he advertised that he had set up on his own, representing various firms. The 'Implement and Machinery Depot' appears to have been successful in those years of agricultural prosperity, for in 1875 we find him moving to Woodcock, a disused sandpit some way east of the town and near to the railway, where he built himself a factory for agricultural implements. He continued his agency besides, he acted as representative for Fowler's of Leeds, and as a steam-ploughing contractor. He made wire fencing for the Inclosure Commissioners and later on private account. Round the turn of the century his main business was the manufacture of hay and corn elevators and water-supplies. The elevator, like Reeves's, was in advance of its time and continued substantially unchanged until the nineteen-twenties. The water-supply work led to specialization in the boring of artesian wells, pipe and pump work and then windpumps. He obtained contracts first in the county, then also in Italy, British West Africa and elsewhere. At the peak of this activity some 150 men were employed, some of them constantly travelling (like Haden's men) to fit up equipment. After John Wallis Titt's death in 1910, business declined for some time. In 1929 only 25 men were employed. But since the trade has revived under the management of Mr. G.T. Frost in 1952 about 60 men were working there on the agricultural and waterworks side.

 Death: 1954, Sydney NS Canada
 Father: John Wallis Titt (Oct 1841-1910)
 Mother: Emily Eliza Sainsbury (Oct 1841-)

According to R F C Titt of Swindon Wilts, John Wallis & Emily had this son Harold Edgar. He married a Canadian girl, and lived in Edmonton, Alberta.

Harold EDGAR Titt, was born at Warminster in 1883 and travelled to Canada in the 1910's. He settled in Montreal, Quebec and married Ada (also spelled Aida) Emily Wilson in Montreal about 1919. That is when they changed the name. There's your Canadian girl but we don't have much info on her--no exact dates. Her family were immigrants from England. She was born in Bedfordshire, UK in the 1880's. I have a lovely old photo of her about 2 years old. Harold was a civil engineer and worked in electronics until he moved to Sydney where he worked in sales. He died in 1953 in Sydney. I never met him as I was born in 1954.

Their four children were all born in Montreal but the family moved to Sydney, Nova Scotia in the 1930's and stayed there. Both Edgar and Ada Emily are buried in the Anglican church yard in Sydney.

1. Wallis Edgar, born 1920, died in the late 1990's in Toronto. Never married and had no children. He served in Britain during the war and had some contact with our British family then. On returning to Canada (Toronto) after the war, he attended art college and worked for a while for Eaton's but later worked at Massey Ferguson.

2. Alan Wilson, born 1923, died in 1973 or 74 in Sydney. He had a grocery store and his mother lived with him after Harold's death. He married very late in life and had no children.

3. Marion Emily, born 1925, died 2012 in Connecticut. She married an American, John Vivian, and moved to New York, then to Conn. She had two children, Harold (Hal), and Jan. I don't have dates for their births but they are about 10 years younger than me, so would have been born in the 1960's. Hal never married, no children. Jan married--her surname is Kielec-- has one girl, Samantha (Sammy) and is divorced. Sammy is around 11 or 12. I knew Marion very well, she was like a mother to me.

4. Ross John (my father) born 1929 and died 1986. He trained as an RCMP officer and was posted to Newfoundland where he married my mother, Janet Ruth Petrie, born 1933 in Grand Falls, Newfoundland, died 2012 in Edmonton, Alberta. Ross left the Mounties and was in wholesale dry goods sales in Newfoundland. They had three children:

1. Lyn Marion, born 1954, in Florida, USA. Married John Robert Silverio Pirquet later in life, no children. Lives in Victoria, British Columbia.

2. Roy Harold, born 1955 in Grand Falls, Newfoundland. He married Cynthia Ruth Godden, born in late 1950's in Comfort Cove, Newfoundland. They had three girls: Robin, Megan and Danielle. I don't have birth dates but could write them to ask, if you would like. We are not close. He and his family moved to Edmonton in 1993 and our mother (Janet) moved to live with them.

3. Mark Harris, born 1971 in Grand Falls. He is married to Erica Hollette, born in Leaf Rapids, Manitoba. They have one boy, Hunter Harrison Tait, born 2014. They now live in Toronto.

According to Barbara Fink's note, this gentleman's name was Frederick, not Francis as previously recorded. I have amended the record in Barbara's favor, as it is her line.

Frederick was a yeoman when he married but a cabinet maker when Maria n was born in Nov 1876, in Lambeth, Surrey.

In 1889 Frederick his wife, Mary Ann Aplin and two children, Marian Eliza Buckeridge Titt and William Aplin Titt came to United States. They went directly to Salt Lake City, UT. They traveled with another family from England named Fessler. They worked in Salt Lake City. Mr. Titt was a cabinet maker and Mr. Fessler a stone mason. We do not think they were related. They were supposed to be working on the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City but I don't know if that is true or not.

In 1900 they are in Santa Barbara, CA and Frederick is building cabinets for steam ships. He also built the cabinet for the first X-RAY machines.

In 1903 I find them in San Francisco where they lived until their deaths. He and his wife operated a boarding house. They had the old Spreckles Mansion near Van Ness and Pacifica. Frederick had a cabinet shop and his son was in partnership with him when he was old enough.

They lived there during the earthquake in 1906. They stayed after the earthquake but most people left and their daughter and son-in-law left for Los Angeles where they made their home.
